

RUNDLE STUDIO

Virtual School + Community = A REAL Sense of Belonging

Grades 7–8 program

CREATING A DYNAMIC, INTERACTIVE LEARNING EXPERIENCE

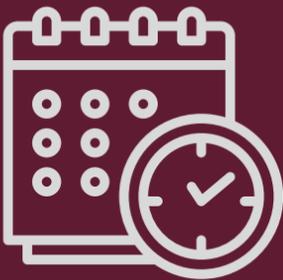

Expert teachers, determined by both their subject matter and learning disability expertise, will deliver the courses in a highly interactive online learning environment. Various approaches including, but not limited to, Universal Design for Learning (UDL) and proprietary tools will be leveraged to support students based on their unique needs.

A DIFFERENTIATED APPROACH

At Rundle Studio, students will have access to Lead Teachers that are available in both real-time and on-demand videos for revisiting concepts and lessons. Accommodations are deployed by Teacher Advisors based on a robust IPP that is reviewed regularly to ensure that it is an authentic reflection of each student's true needs and growing skill development.

PERSONALIZED STUDENT SUPPORT

Helping students organize themselves and take control of their learning will be an ongoing process of gradual release of responsibility. The Teacher Advisor will consider the cognitive abilities of each student and create a personalized learning journey. The goal is to grow the student's skills from middle school through high school supporting their unique development needs.

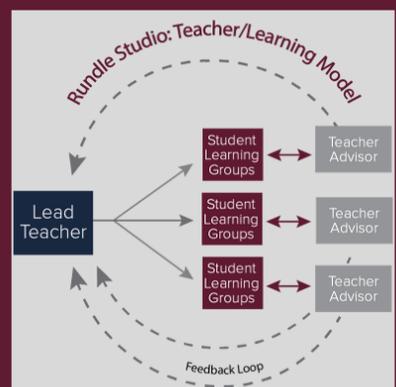

COMMUNITY AND CHARACTER

To ensure students are connected to their peers, their teachers, and their community Rundle Studio will consciously cultivate a sense of community. Through deliberate character building, social interactions, as well as co-curricular offerings that are based on choices students make that reflect their passion-based interests. Students will actively engage in community service opportunities in their local areas and share their experiences as part of their expectations for learning.

LEARNING MODEL

The Lead Teacher (LT) will deliver curricular content using clear direct instruction to all students in the grade. After the lesson, students move to small breakout groups where the Teacher Advisor (TA) consolidates the learning through highly dynamic, engaging, and personalized activities.
